Workshops and Seminars

Each delegate will have the opportunity to attend two workshops, as each one is delivered twice during the afternoon

Please choose from

A PPGs making the best of Social Media Sessions 1 and 2

Facilitator: Olivia King, N.A.P.P. Trustee

We are constantly being told of the importance of “digital access” in health services. Are you confident your PPG is making use of some of the social media tools available, and does your PPG know why social media can help some patients? This workshop will explore the benefits social media can bring – to patients and to PPGs – and will help you understand the potential of tools such as Twitter, Facebook, Instagram, and Wordpress.

B How can PPGs in practices that are struggling or in “special measures” be effective? Sessions 1 and 2

Facilitator: Dr James Larcombe, RCGP

There are many challenges for GP practices and their staff when the practice is struggling, or has formally been put into “special measures”. This workshop will explore what this means, and how PPGs can be part of the turnaround to improve the practice, for the benefit of patients.

C Patient participation and social prescribing Sessions 1 and 2

Facilitators: Fiona Weir, N.A.P.P. Trustee

Social prescribing is a way of linking patients with social and physical activities and with community support, to improve wellbeing and independence. It is one of ten 'high impact actions' identified by NHS England to release more GP time for care. This workshop will give you a chance to find out more about social prescribing and its benefits, and to explore how social prescribing could help your practice and its patients. It will also explore the ways in which PPGs can be involved in social prescribing work.

D Patient participation in GP consultation skills teaching Session 1 only

Facilitator: Dr Graham Easton, GP and medical journalist

The ten-minute consultation is the heart of general practice and GPs are rightly proud of the training offered to students in this area. But for too long teaching of this two-way encounter has been mostly shaped and taught by one half of the partnership, the doctors. Based on your views of a video of a GP teaching session, this workshop will explore how patients might be involved more actively in teaching students and trainees about doctor-patient interactions. We aim to come up with some concrete ideas to increase patient participation in this area both locally and nationally.

E N.A.P.P. ‘Group of 100’ Session 2 only

Facilitator: Paul Devlin, Chief Executive, N.A.P.P.

N.A.P.P. is frequently asked for the views of PPGs by other organisations, often with very short deadlines. There is real potential for us to influence, to bring a powerful patient voice, and to promote the views of PPGs, if we can better capture PPG perspectives. Whilst we do, from time to time, seek the views of all our members, we are setting up a “Group of 100”- 100 PPG representatives who are able to give a quick turnaround response to targeted questions, e.g. via email or Survey Monkey. This workshop will explore how the Group of 100 will work, and the potential influence it could have.
